been going systematically from valley to valley, burning tents and looting cattle, thus depriving the inhabitants of the means of livelihood.

- 7. If the guerrillas are driven out of the Tienshan area, it is likely that they will retreat to the Kunlun Mountains, in hope of receiving help from Tibet.
- The large numbers of Chinese Communist troops at Ili* and Chuguchak may be intended to prevent any guerrillas from crossing into Kazakhatan and causing trouble for the Soviets.
